SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION:
Do NOT become an ASSAILANT

Here are some facts you should know…

- Nonconsensual sex is rape.

- By West Virginia State Law a person who is incapacitated by alcohol or drugs is legally unable to give consent to engage in sexual intercourse.

- You can be arrested and charged with rape if you have sex with a person who is incapacitated by alcohol or drugs and the person later decides it was nonconsensual sex and files charges.

- If you are arrested, you will need a lawyer and you will probably need to notify your parents.

- If convicted of rape, which is a felony, you will become a registered sex offender.

- Even when your partner is not incapacitated by alcohol or drugs, you should ask before proceeding if there is any question about what your partner does or does not want.

This information is brought to you by the WVU Council for Women’s Concerns www.as.wvu.edu/cwc
We care about your well-being!