Library Databases

Group 1
Working as a team, please use the library databases to answer the following.

1) Our library contains exactly one dictionary of UFOs. Who wrote it?

2) After George W. Bush choked on a pretzel, Cynthia Billhartz of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch wrote an article with what headline?

3) Steve Kemper wrote an article for Smithsonian magazine titled “At the ‘Mayo Clinic for Animals,’ the Extraordinary Is Routine.” Give the year, volume number, issue number and call number in our library. [Hint: Since Smithsonian is a general-interest magazine, you might use a general search engine such as EbscoHost to find this article.]

Group 2
Working as a team, please use the library databases to answer the following.

1) Our library contains exactly one book about hallucinogenic mushrooms, written for children. Who is its author?

2) On February 22, 1996, the Cleveland newspaper The Plain Dealer ran an article about zebras. What was the headline?

3) Alison Clarke Stewart published an article in The Journal of Social Issues titled “A Home Is Not a School.” Give the date, volume number and call number in our library. [Hint: You might consult a database such as the Social Sciences Index to find this article.]

Group 3
Working as a team, please use the library databases to answer the following.

1) Our library contains only one book dealing specifically with police corruption and brutality in the state of California. Who wrote it?

2) Under what headline did The New York Times report the death of musician Kurt Cobain?

3) Fred Schroeder published an article in the Journal of Popular Culture titled "Say Cheese." Give the date, volume number, issue number and call number in our library. [Hint: Since this article falls into the category of the Humanities, you might use a database such as the MLA (Modern Language Association) International Bibliography to find this article.]